+ Aston Martin Residences

Porsche Design Tower isn't the only prestigious residential building in South Florida to carry the moniker of an iconic vehicle brand. Across Biscayne Bay, the 66-floor Aston Martin Residences tower is rising in downtown Miami. Located on the waterfront with its own marina, the tower that takes the name of James Bond's preferred car will offer a range of units, from 498-square-foot studios to a dazzling triplex penthouse—391 residences in all. But what really makes Aston Martin Residences shift into overdrive are its four floors of so-called sky amenities, which include unexpected spaces like an art gallery, movie theaters and a teen center as well as a boxing ring, spinning room and an infinity pool that seems to float over Biscayne Bay. With residences priced from $700,000 to $50 million, the British motorcar-inspired building will be complete in 2022. —DL
