

aston martin celebrates the topping out of its residential skyscraper in miami architecture 273 shares connections: +5690

ASTON MARTIN'S NEW MIAMI ICON TAKES SHAPE

during design miami 2021, aston martin with G&G business developments celebrate the topping out of the towering aston martin residences, soon to become the tallest residential tower in the US south of new york city, the skyscraper sweeps over the coastal city at 300 biscayne boulevard way, the luxury tower now reaches all the way up to the 66th and final residential floor and has taken its place in the aspirational miami skyline.

see designboom's previous coverage, including visualizations of the aston martin residences here.

marek reichman, EVP & chief creative officer, aston martin lagoda, said: 'this is a wonderful moment in the development of aston martin's first-ever real estate partnership. it is one thing to look at the structure as drawings and models but to see this magnificent tower reach its full height is incredible.'

'this collaboration has given aston martin the opportunity to define ultra-luxury in the residential space with unique and exclusive designs, exquisite materials and detailed craftsmanship, always with an eye on the balance between beauty and performance.'

images courtesy of aston martin residences / getty images

391 LUXURY RESIDENCES ON THE COAST

taking shape like a sail, the curving aston martin residences (see more here) occupy one of the last plots of developable land on the downtown miami waterfront. the tower will offer 391 luxury condominiums and penthouses with sweeping, panoramic views across biscayne bay and the atlantic ocean. the team at aston martin and G&G business developments notes that the project is 'set to be one of miami's most sought-after residential addresses when it is completed in 2022,' and that it has enjoyed enviable sales success and is now almost 80% sold.

the aston martin residences will host over 42,000 square feet of carefully considered 'sky amenities,' located across four floors near the top of the tower, every resident will enjoy panoramic views while experiencing a suite of wellness activities which the team has designed for mind, body, and soul. a private superyacht marina, a permanent art gallery, and a 24/7 butler service complete the aston martin art of living at this one-of-a-kind property.

germán coto, CEO of G&G business developments, comments: 'when we acquired the land, our vision was to build a new landmark, a love letter to miami and a new benchmark in ultra-luxury living. i'm delighted that the reality is even more magnificent than the vision. to see the aston martin residences reach the top floor fills me with pride.'

'the whole team has worked tirelessly to ensure we are on time, and the craftsmanship is exquisite. every detail has been carefully considered to translate aston martin's iconic and timeless design language into the ultimate luxury residential development.'

marek reichman and german coto