Ahead of Aston Martin Residences grand opening in Miami scheduled for later this year, the luxury residential project's virtual gallery is hosting truly stellar shows. The latest to present his fair share of immersive goodness is British Artist Robi Walters, Aston Martin's former in-residents fellow who offers a unique vision of the premises composed of recycled materials.

Obscurely titled You'll Know When You Get There, the exhibition makes the most of the discarded scrap material to interpret the residence in a collage of illustrious colors. You'll walk the intricate yet simple corridors bathed in the Miami sun as it shades the artworks hung all around. The 3D experience itself, like many Walter's works, imbues a sense of calm and sacredness. The immersive show is open and available free of charge.
